

DAVIS BECOMES DEMOCRATIC STANDARD BEARER; WALSH HAILS HIM AS LIBERAL AND PROGRESSIVE

THOUSANDS STAND IN DRENCHING RAIN TO HEAR ADDRESS

Throng, Packed Like Sardines, Stretches for Half Mile From Speaker's Stand.

CANDIDATE DELIVERS
SPEECH DESPITE RAIN

Frequently Interrupted by Burst of Cheers as He Hammers Home Some Point.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Clarksville, W. Va., August 11.—The home town of John W. Davis showed its affection for the democratic candidate when many thousands of his fellow citizens stood, packed like sardines, in a downpour of rain tonight to hear his speech of acceptance.

The throng stretched for half a mile across the gentle slopes which lead away from Goff's Plaza, where the ceremony took place.

The rain started to patter down gently as Senator Walsh was about half way through the speech of notification. It became a steady down-pour just as Davis was presented, but the mammoth throng stayed.

Here and there an umbrella was raised by a lucky citizen.

Newspapers, handkerchiefs and other makeshifts were used. A few went up to the speaker's stand and tore away the red, white and blue bunting and used it to protect their heads. But not for long. The colors began to run over their faces and the bunting had to be discarded.

Reporters Work in Teams.

The fourscore newspaper men in the press section worked in teams. One held an umbrella or a piece of handkerchief or a newspaper over his head to enable him to write on dry paper.

Davis was given a prolonged demonstration when he was introduced to the crowd and finally had to hold up his hands so that he could go ahead with his speech. When the demonstration for Senator Walsh, who had preceded Davis, had subsided after long and whole-hearted ovation, Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, stepped to the front, smiling. The crowd knew what was coming. There was a hush over the great throng.

"Ladies and Gentlemen—Mr. Davis," Shaver said, and stepped back. Davis stepped up and the crowd broke loose.

As Davis continued his speech, the rain began to come down in torrents. The noise of the rain and of people talking almost drowned his voice, but he continued. He was talking to millions over the radio. And the crowd stayed.

Wonders What Republican Response.

One old white-haired fellow in the crowd looked up with a wicker smile and said:

"I wonder what republican is responsible for this."

The platform on which Davis stood, and the handstand, were the only places of shelter in the immediate vicinity.

The rain beat into the little speaker's booth, however, and soaked the democratic candidate. From time to time, Davis mopped his brow with a dripping handkerchief. But he smiled good-naturedly and continued gesturing with a clenched fist as he drove home his points.

The enthusiasm of the crowd was

THREE WOUNDED AS BULLETS FLY ON SUNSET AVE.

Negro Opens Fire as L.

Him Until Police Reach
Scene.

DR. G. F. BECK, WITNESS
TO ACCIDENT, WOUNDED

John Benton, Negro Spectator, Hit in Leg—Negro Driver of Car Is Shot But Escapes.

At least three men were wounded—one possibly fatally—in a shooting affray early Monday night in front of the Sunset pharmacy, Sunset avenue and Simpson street, as the result of an argument following an automobile collision in front of the store. Those shot were Dr. G. F. Beck, physician, with offices in the Sunset building; a negro, John Benton, of 253 Thurman street, and a negro who escaped and who is said to have opened hostilities.

Both Dr. Beck and Benton were wounded accidentally in the general shooting, witnesses state. Police, who arrived a few minutes after firing stopped, followed the bloody trail of the escaped negro for several blocks, but lost it after he had passed through several fields. However, it is certain that he was wounded several times, and it is thought that his wounds are serious.

A police net has been spread over the entire city, all hospitals are being watched carefully, and the doctors' exchange has been notified.

Collision Causes Trouble.

According to police report, the shooting started following a crash between the negro's machine and one driven by L. B. Austin, of 102 McDonald street. The former's car swerved into a telephone pole after the collision, and was practically demolished, although the driver escaped unhurt.

Noise of the crash attracted several men from the drug store, including L. M. Green, of 493 Simpson street, who asked the negro his name and whether he was hurt. After giving his name as Jim Baker, the negro turned to walk away, but was told by Green that he could not leave until reports had been made to police.

The negro, suddenly drawing a revolver, fired point-blank at him, and although not struck by the bullet, Green suffered severe powder burns about the face. Several of the men who had witnessed the accident and shooting from inside the drug store returned the fire as the negro fled down Sunset avenue, shooting as he ran.

Beck Wounded in Arm.

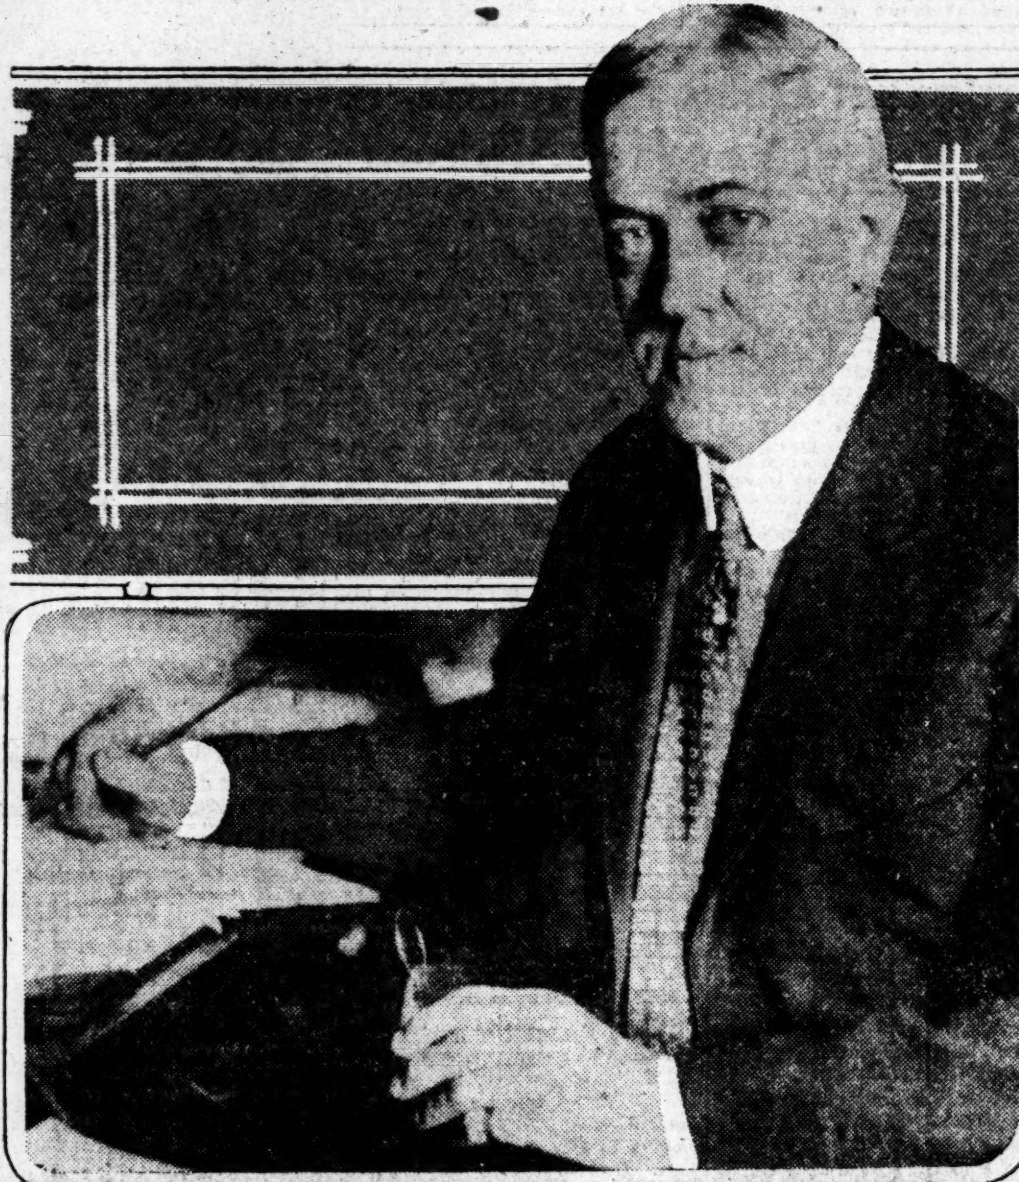

Dr. Beck, who was in the crowd of spectators, was wounded in the forearm by one of the negro's bullets, while Benton was shot in the leg as he walked toward the store. Neither wound was serious, and both were dressed at the drug store.

The negro who started the shooting ran limping down the street, blood spurting from a wound in his leg and another in his thigh. He was pursued for some distance, but his trail was soon lost, and the pursuers returned to the drug store to summon police.

STATE PORT BILL WILL BE DEBATED IN HOUSE TODAY

Proposal to Establish Income Tax in Georgia Also Is Slated for Consideration.

The house of representatives Monday afternoon disposed of five senate bills, passing three and defeating two. When it meets at 9 o'clock this morning the most important measures scheduled for consideration during the day will be the state port and income tax bills.

The measures passed Monday afternoon included one which was backed by various women's organizations throughout the state. It is known as the "wild flower bill," and makes it a misdemeanor for any person to injure certain varieties of shrubs and trees on private property, without the consent of the owner. The vote was 103 to 5.

Another bill receiving favorable consideration was one to bar officers of corporations from testifying in court action against representatives of deceased or insane persons, regarding conversations with the deceased or insane principal. This passed by 105 to 0.

FORD NAME TO GO ON G. O. P. BALLOT

Michigan Secretary of State Rules It Cannot Be Withdrawn After Qualification.

Lansing, Mich., August 11.—The name of Henry Ford apparently will go on the ballot in Michigan as a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator in the September primaries, regardless of press dispatches from South Sudbury, Mass., quoting Ford as saying he will not be a candidate.

The attorney general's office recently gave an opinion that Ford could withdraw his name within 10 days, but Secretary of State Charles Deland pointed out the law says that, after the closing of time for filing petitions, the secretary of state shall forthwith certify the names to the county clerks.

While Deland says he admits the "common sense" of the attorney general's opinion, he holds that the word "forthwith" in the law does not mean in ten days and clerks in the secretary of state's office began today the work of certifying the names of candidates to the county clerks.

Mr. Ford had not requested that his name be withdrawn at a late hour tonight, and with the work of certifying the names already begun, what action would be taken if he did ask to withdraw, Mr. Deland was unable to say.

Meanwhile, Peter Fagan, secretary of the securities commission, who announced he was responsible for having the petitions for Ford circulated, asserted it was all right with him "if

RUHR EVACUATION IS ONLY OBSTACLE TO FULL HARMONY

French and German Ministers Hold Frequent Private Interviews To Settle Moot Question.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
London, August 11.—The reparations conference has finally shaken itself down to the difficult question of the Ruhr evacuation and the leaders are attempting in private interviews to effect a settlement of this acute political problem, which really is not on the agenda of the conference.

M. Herriot, the French premier, had a long interview today with Dr. Stresemann, the German foreign minister. Chancellor Marx and Dr. Stresemann called on M. Theunis, the Belgian premier, and the leading German delegates also conferred with Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister.

Terms Must Be Settled.

While M. Herriot is supposed to have returned from Paris with authority to agree to the Ruhr evacuation within eleven months, the question of when evacuation will begin and the details of its execution, including the desire of the French and Belgians to keep their nationals on the railways, must be settled among the French, Belgians, English and Germans before the conference can

NOMINEE'S RECORD CITED AS PROOF BY FAMED PROBER

Four Outstanding Issues Upon Which Democrats Will Make Campaign Put Forward.

TAG OF WALL STREET
HELD WITHOUT MERIT

Legal Practice of Davis Divided Between Rich and Poor, Labor Unions and Trusts.

Clarksville, W. Va., August 11.—Tried by the "acid test," John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, is "a liberal and a progressive."

This characterization by the party's standard bearer, Senator Walsh, of Montana, permanent chairman of the democratic convention, formally notified Davis here Monday night, in his home town, of his nomination.

Citing the record of Davis in congress, as solicitor general of the United States and as a lawyer, Walsh answered those who have criticized the nominee for his connection with large corporations.

Honorable Career as Lawyer.

"Such misgivings as have been felt, such doubts as have been ventured touching your nomination," Walsh said, "bear no relation to anything done or to anything left undone in your active and highly servicable political and official career, to any votes you may have cast. These appear to be unexceptionable."

"Tried by that touchstone, by that acid test, every fair-minded man must adjudge you a liberal, a progressive."

"The argument that you are a Wall street man, in an obnoxious sense," he declared, "is without merit, as is the assertion that your nomination is a Wall street nomination. It was effected without any support from delegations popularly believed to be under the influence of Wall street."

"It was not until after your vote had been swayed by accessions from every section of the country, particularly from the south and the west, and your nomination was assured, that the great states of New York and Illinois on the final roll changed their votes and enrolled under your standard."

Outlines Campaign Issues.

Turning to the campaign, Walsh outlined the issues for the democrats. "These I conceive to be, in the main, four: Honesty in government; revision of the tariff; the maintenance in principle of the present income tax law; and frank cooperation with the nations of Europe for the restoration of peace and the revival of industry to insure an increased demand for our agricultural products."

BATTER SAVAGELY DEFENSE'S THEORY IN FRANKS TRIAL

Fantasy Life and Disorder Glands of Slaying Ridiculed by State's Attorney Crowe.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Chicago, August 11.—The theories of the fantasy life and functional disorder of the endocrine glands, built up by the defense through its fourth alienist, Dr. H. S. Hulbert, of Chicago, in its plea for mitigation of punishment of Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., for kidnaping and slaying young Robert Franks, was attacked vigorously by the state today in the hearing before Judge John R. Caverly.

Battering away at the mass of written and oral testimony developed by the defense, in its claim that the youths were influenced by childish fantasies which continued to sway them as they developed into manhood, Loeb dreaming of committing the perfect crime, and Leopold blindly following because of a "king-slave" dream that had persisted for years, Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, forced from Dr. Hulbert the admission that it was possible the youths had been released by attorneys and doctors interested in building their defense.

Effect of Glands Doubtful.

Hammering no less relentlessly, the prosecutor gained the admission that the effect of the endocrine glands on forming and fixing mentality is as yet a seriously debated question in the medical profession.

The young mental pathologist admitted that his conclusions that both Loeb and Leopold were "mentally sick" were based chiefly on statements made to him by Loeb and Leopold, and that he knew the two had lied to him in some instances, mainly through withholding information they were asked to divulge.

He admitted there were gaps in his report, which, if filled in with the withheld information, might have influenced him to conclusions different from those he had reached.

Planned To Attack Girl.

"That Leopold favored kidnaping and attacking a young girl before killing her, rather than following Loeb's plan of selecting a male child as their victim, also was brought out by Mr. Crowe on cross-examination, Dr. Hulbert

Two Men Injured AS TRAINS COLLIDE

Eight Cars Are Smashed in Wreck as Freight Engine Crashes Into Cars Ahead.

Roanoke, Va., August 11.—A rear-end collision between freight trains on the Virginian railway near Stone Mountain, a point about 20 miles east of here, resulted in injuries to two men and considerable damage to eight freight cars and an engine about noon today.

Virginian officials here were unable to give cause for the wreck and stated that as yet the blame had been fixed on no one.

Both trains were headed east. At a point about one mile east of Stone Mountain, the coal drag behind crashed into the train ahead of it, smashing up eight of the cars.

The injured men are Engineer Palmer and Fireman Wayland, both of Roanoke, who were on the engine of the rear train. Both men, when they saw that the crash was inevitable, are said to have jumped from the cab, thus avoiding more serious injuries. Reports state that neither was seriously hurt, but both were brought to a local hospital suffering with sprains and bruises.

The collision occurred in a cut and the wrecked cars of the train in front were piled up in such a manner that the track was blocked.

Davis To Campaign 'Without Kid Gloves'

Clarksville, W. Va., August 11. With his campaign organization completed, John W. Davis is ready for the vigorous battle of the next few weeks, and will conduct it "without kid gloves."

He flung this challenge to the republican and independents in an address to the members of the democratic national committee, who had gathered to complete the committee's organization and formulate plans for the campaign.

"I am going on the firing line tonight and will remain there until election day," Davis said.

Recalling "Stonewall" Jackson, who was born in Harrison county, in which Clarksville is located, Davis recounted a legend of this region which tells how an old fellow approached the bier of Jackson and said: "If you see Julius Caesar, tell him we are still making war."

Davis said that if tonight the spirit of Woodrow Wilson sees that of Thomas Jefferson, he will say: "We are still making war."

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Clarksville, W. Va., August 11.—Charging the republican party with corruption in office, favoritism in legislation and division and discord that has left it a "leaderless and incoherent mob," John W. Davis tonight took the helm of the democratic party with the campaign appeal that "it is the supreme need of the hour to bring back to the people confidence in their government."

"The allied forces of greed and dishonesty, of self-seeking and partisanship, of prejudice and ignorance, threaten today as they have rarely done before the perpetuity of our national ideals, traditions and institutions," he declared tonight to his townspeople, who worked tirelessly for his nomination, and to leaders of his party, who gathered here to notify him formally of his choice as standard-bearer.

"There is a feeling abroad in the land too general to be ignored, too deep-seated for an trifling, that men in office can no longer be trusted to keep faith with those who sent them there, and that the powers of government are being exercised in the pursuit of personal gain instead of the common service."

Scores Coolidge's Attitude.

For the Salt of the Earth, See Georgia

They call Georgia the Empire State—and you will find the name not without significance.

For the very blood of the citizens in this state springs from the best of the old British Empire mingled with two noteworthy streams of American immigration—one flowing down from Pennsylvania and the other from New England.

These immigrants, settling among the great masses of the State's people, have produced the typical Georgian of today, the free citizen of the Empire State.

He or she is the member of this far-flung community who most earnestly appreciates the service rendered by The Atlanta Constitution, which—fifteen years before any other Atlanta newspaper was even in existence—began telling Americans to come to Georgia for peace and prosperity.

38 Winners in "Miss Atlanta" Tourney Given Instructions

Preliminary winners in The Constitution's 1924 tournament to select "Miss Atlanta" for the Atlantic City National Beauty Pageant early next month were issued full instructions Monday on the part they will play in the judging this week at the Biltmore hotel, and all was in readiness for the elimination process which will disclose the identity of the final winner.

During the day it developed that chances of each preliminary winner were increased by reason of the fact that three of the first winners are out of the city and all of them probably will not take part in the judging.

The three are Miss Emma Anderson, of 237 South Pryor street, who is in Florida; Miss Anne Whiteley, of 248 Cascade avenue, who is in Oklahoma City; and Miss Josephine Hollie, of 183 Avery drive, who is in Forsyth. It was stated positively that Misses Anderson and Whiteley will not be able to be on hand for the judging, and it was reported that Miss Hollie's return was in doubt.

GOVERNOR SIGNS ANTI-FEE MEASURE

Abolition of the fee system of paying county officials of Fulton county, over which a fight has been waged for 20 years, came Monday morning when Governor Clifford Walker affixed his signature to the general anti-fee bill, placing on a salary basis the sheriff, ordinary, tax collector, tax receiver and clerk of superior court. Along with the general salary bill, Governor Walker signed a measure which will place the solicitor general of the Fulton superior court on a salary of $12,000.

The only anti-fee bill not passed yet is one which will fix the salary of solicitor of the Atlanta criminal court at $10,000 a year. The bill was favorably reported Monday morning by the senate general judiciary committee No. 2, and read for the second time. It will be ready for a third reading and final action by the senate today, the house already having passed it.

Women Active in Fight.
The general anti-fee bill was signed by Governor Walker in the presence of Representative J. O. Wood, of Fulton county, and several members of the Atlanta Women's club and the Atlanta League of Women Voters, both of which organizations have waged a tireless fight for passage of the salary measures. Among those present at the time of signature were Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Women's club; Mrs. Sanford Gay, president of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. Paul Belmont, Mrs. W. F. Trenary, Mrs. Ben Simcox and Mrs. J. O. Wood.

AMERICAN CRUISER SENT TO HONDURAS

Washington, August 11.—The cruiser Galveston, on patrol duty in the Caribbean waters, has been ordered to Ceiba, Honduras, her commander being directed to confer with the American consul there.

Announcement of the sending of the warship was made at the navy department with no other explanation than that the commander was to get in touch with the consul. The movement, however, comes after the outbreak recently of a revolution in Honduras and was generally taken to be in connection with that development.

Earlier in the day, it was said at the state department that the step had as yet been taken by the Washington government in connection with the renewal of revolutionary activities in Honduras. It was assumed that in sending the Galveston to Ceiba, where there are extensive American interests and a considerable American population, the government was merely taking a precautionary step to have a means of protection available should the outbreak spread to that port.

STATE PORT BILL WILL BE DEBATED

Issued by the secretary of state, instead of by the insurance commissioner, as heretofore. The vote was 107 to 0.

The first bill to meet defeat during the afternoon session was to prohibit corporations from holding stock in public utilities either by taxation or donation. An amendment limiting the library taxation rate to one mill was adopted, but on a vote to agree with the committee report which was favorable to the bill, the opponents won by vote of 57 to 63.

A number of important bills are scheduled for consideration Tuesday. Among these is the income tax bill. This failed to pass during the extra session last year, when the two houses could not agree on amendments to the bill. It is a senate bill, by Lankford of the 15th.

Last week a group of income tax supporters in the house succeeded in passing a motion to take the bill from the table. Since then they have drawn a substitute bill, which will be offered when the measure is reached today on the house calendar. Representative Bessley, of Crisp, has also stated that he will offer another substitute. Debate on the proposal is limited to ten minutes for the speaker, with twenty minutes for each author.

The state port bill, which would provide for a state bond issue of not more than $1,000,000 for the purpose of building a state-owned port and warehouse terminals on the Atlantic seaboard, also is expected to come up today. This has been vigorously backed by the Savannah delegation and a hot fight on the proposal is anticipated on the floor of the house.

Absentee Voters Bill

Another important measure which probably will come up in the house today is the absentee voters bill, which provides that the traveler, unavoidably absent from his home county on the date of the primary, may cast his ballot by registered mail.

Several amendments on minor points will be made in order to comply with primary laws of the state, but little opposition to the bill is expected.

Another bill which has won large support is the measure to clarify the Georgia law as to organizing and operating building and loan associations. The bill is intended to make such associations somewhat more elastic of operation, without in the least diminishing elements of safety and security, which are essential to associations of this character.

Banking Act Passed.
The house Monday morning passed the uniform instruments act, making the form of negotiable paper in Georgia identical with that of other states. The measure, which was passed by a vote of 129 to 41, was backed by banking institutions in all parts of the state.

An effort to place at the top of the calendar the bill affecting the Confederate Soldiers' home, and providing, among other things, for automatic removal of Superintendent McAllister, was overridden by a vote of 104 to 89 in favor of the motion.

Three of the first four senate bills considered by the body Monday morning were passed, but the other two were defeated through lack of the required two-thirds vote. A resolution of Senator Carwell authorizing trustees of Georgia Tech to use $85,000 of the Julius Brown fund for erection of an apartment building to house members of the faculty was passed by a vote of 19 to 10.

Phillips Bill Passed.

The house also passed Senator Phillips' bill authorizing insurance companies to deposit as surety with the United States, state, county or municipal bonds. The vote was 106 to 0.

A bill of the same senator providing for disposition of funds left in the hands of deceased judges 10 votes short of passing.

The same fate befell the bill requiring the sheriff to notify lien holders before selling property for taxes. The vote on the bill, which was introduced by Senator Gillis, was 90 to 38.

Spanish Army Reorganized.

Madrid, August 11.—The Spanish army has been reorganized. It now consists of 24 infantry brigades, two brigades of mountain infantry, 16 artillery brigades, a section charged with the mobilization of industries in case of war, and an aeronautical section. Reserve regiments to the number of 76 have been created.

Washington, August 11.—The cruiser Galveston, on patrol duty in the Caribbean waters, has been ordered to Ceiba, Honduras, her commander being directed to confer with the American consul there.

REPUBLICAN PARTY LASHED BY DAVIS

"corruption in office" as revealed by investigations in congress with respect to President Coolidge and republican leaders, "whose effort has been to weaken the effect of these exposure by crying out, not against the guilty, but against those who exposed them."

"What shall we say when a statement comes from one who, of all men, should have been most deeply stirred by the wonder is not that so many have fallen, but that so few have been shown untrue?" he asked, referring to President Coolidge's address in New York last February. "With what patience shall we greet the libelous suggestion that, after all, we are but incidents provoked by the demoralization attendant upon the great war?"

Declaring that "no taint of dishonesty in the government has ever existed," he declared that the fight is not against any man holding public office during that great struggle or to any man who continued to hold office under the federal government until the end of 1921. Davis said that "shell-shock was late, indeed, in arriving if it is to be put forward now as the excuse for these gross misdeeds."

Turning to the record of the administration, he assailed the Fordney-McCumber tariff, the attempt to force through the Mellon tax bill, the failure to secure the world court and an association of nations as promised by President Harding and the party's general "division in council and impotence in action."

On his behalf, he pledged the democratic party, if placed in power, to this domestic program. Further reduction of taxation, economy in government, aid to the farmers, wiping out of exorbitant rates and discriminatory provisions of the present tariff law, more pay for government workers, further aid to veterans, laws for protection of women and children, enforcement of the prohibition.

Attitude on Foreign Questions.

As to foreign affairs, he pledged himself to the world court, announced his readiness for a further conference on disarmament, and declared that "we do not and we cannot accept the dictum unauthorized by any expressions of popular will that the league of nations is a misnomer."

Without mentioning the Ku Klux Klan, Davis approved at length the plank in the party platform for religious freedom, saying that "no disaster that the mind can picture equals in its hideous possibilities the coming of this country of a separation of the citizenship into discordant groups along racial or religious lines."

In another portion of his address he linked up the rise of the Klan, without naming it, "the prevalent distrust" into which he said the government has fallen.

Takes Slap at Klan.

"Out of this and because of it," he said in this connection, "there has developed an alarming tendency to take the administration of the law out of the hands of constituted officials and to execute its processes through individuals or through organized societies, little different from those of private revenge."

In his attack on the administration, Davis singled out for a vigorous onslaught the disagreement between President Coolidge and his leaders in congress.

"Whenever before did a party in control of the executive and of a majority in both houses of congress present so pitiable a spectacle of discord and division? An executive who cannot or will not lead, a congress that cannot or will not follow—how can good government exist under such conditions?"

"The administration's foreign policy, the nominee declared, 'we must face the humiliating fact that we have a government that does not dare to speak its mind beyond the three-mile limit.'"

Done Nothing for Peace.

"The Washington conference alone aside, and that of more than doubtful value, what single contribution has the United States of America, as an organized nation among nations, made to world peace in the last four years?" asked Davis.

"Not only have the executive recommendations for adherence to the world court, sanctioned by the long American tradition and example, been flouted and ignored, but no evidence is in sight that the republican party, as now constituted, can frame and carry to its conclusion any definite and consistent foreign policy."

"Providence does not give the gifts of peace to those who will not labor to achieve them," Davis said, turning to his aims if elected.

"In the name of the democratic party, therefore, I promise to this country that no enterprise sincerely directed to this end will lack our approval and cooperation. We favor the world court in sincerity, and not merely for campaign purposes or as an avenue of escape from the consideration of larger questions."

For Wider Foreign Policy.

"We wish to see America as a nation play her part in that reconstruction of the economic life of Europe, which has proven itself so indispensable to our own well-being and prosperity."

"We are ready for any conference on disarmament, provided it is to general in its membership and so wide in its scope as to be able to deal broadly with so broad a theme. We do not and we cannot accept the dictum, unauthorized by any expression of popular will, that the league of nations is a closed incident so far as we are concerned. We deny the right of any man to this sort of gate to the future against us and to write that fatal word, 'Never,' across the face of our foreign policy."

"Is it not a fact that medical men know practically nothing of the function of the pineal gland?" asked the prosecutor.

"Some of them, yes," replied Dr. Hulbert.

"Isn't a fact that there is some question whether the pineal gland is a gland at all?" Asked Mr. Crowe.

"Yes, in some people's minds," replied the witness.

The endocrines Dr. Hulbert enumerated as six in number, all ductless—the thyroid, thymus, pineal, pituitary, adrenals and sex glands, the last two in pairs.

Still Under Examination.

Dr. Hulbert was being cross-examined on the report of pathology found in Leopold when court adjourned today tomorrow.

He had been on the witness stand two full court days and the greater part of a third. It was indicated that he would be dismissed from the witness box before noon tomorrow, and Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said that the defense would rest before adjournment.

Must Impair Labor Rights.

The hearing will require at least the remainder of this week, according to the estimates of the attorneys.

The young defendants found numerous amusing incidents in the hearing and, whistled and smiled to each other many times, grinning widest probably when Dr. Hulbert said that he was "brighter than they both intellectually and emotionally."

FORD AGAIN STATES HE IS NOT CANDIDATE.

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—Henry Ford today reiterated his statement that he "is not and does not intend to be a candidate for U. S. senator," according to reports reaching here from Sudbury, Mass., where he is resting.

His secretary was quoted as saying for Mr. Ford "it can not be made too strong that he will not be a candidate. Informed that unless Mr. Ford withdraws his name within ten days it will be printed in the September primary ballots, the secretary intimated that a telegram of withdrawal will be sent to the secretary of state tomorrow."

FORD NOT TO BE PUT ON NEBRASKA BALLOT.

Lincoln, Neb., August 11.—The name of Henry Ford, Detroit auto manufacturer, named by voters of the progressive party of Nebraska as their choice for president in the April 8 primary, will not be placed on the Nebraska November general election ballot, Secretary of State Pool announced today, in commenting on a statement last night from Roy M. Harbo, vice presidential nominee of the people's progressive party, that he would demand that Mr. Ford's name be voted on in November.

The name of a candidate for president, Mr. Pool pointed out, does not go on the ballot without formal nomination by some party, adding that the primary vote does not necessarily constitute a nomination.

May Bring Buffalo Back to Old Haunts In West Virginia

Pittsburg, August 11.—A movement to bring the buffalo back to his old stamping grounds in the mountains of West Virginia and Tennessee has been launched by a party of well-known Pittsburg business men and bankers, who today are en route to Yellowstone National park to investigate reports that large numbers of the animals have been crowded off the government grazing ranges.

Headed by J. V. Babcock, former mayor and lumber operator, the Pittsburgers will offer the West Virginia and Tennessee mountain ranges, owned by Mr. Babcock, as a home for the buffaloes. The Babcock range includes 700,000 acres in Monroe county, Tennessee, and 12,000 acres near Davis, W. Va.

Highlights in Acceptance Speech of John W. Davis

These are some of the outstanding utterances of the speech of acceptance of John W. Davis:

I shall stand ready with corruption in administration, with favoritism to privileged classes in legislation, with factionalism in council and impotence in action. . . . When a great political party becomes a leaderless and incoherent mob, it must give way to some rival better fitted for the task of government.

From my point of view, he only deserves to be called a progressive who cannot see a wrong persist without an effort to redress it.

We do not and we cannot accept the dictum, unauthorized by any expression of popular will, that the league of nations is a closed incident as far as we are concerned.

If I become president of the United States, America will sit as an equal among equals, whenever she sits at all.

I have never found it possible to take a narrow view of life. If

Not only have the executive recommendations for adherence to the world court, sanctioned as they are by long American tradition and example, been flouted and ignored, but no evidence is in sight that the republican party as now constituted can frame and carry to its conclusion any definite and consistent foreign policy. * * * * *

Today it is the supreme need of the hour to bring back to the people confidence in their government.

The Washington conference alone aside, and that of more than doubtful value, what single contribution has the United States of America, as an organized nation among nations, made to world peace in the last four years?

We must face the humiliating fact that we have a government that does not dare to speak its mind beyond the three-mile limit.

We promise to the people of America not only revision and reform, but a further reduction in the taxes that weigh them down and sap the vigor of their productive energy.

He is entitled, too, to demand an adequate service of transportation at the expense of the government. The abuses and shortcomings of existing laws, is an ideal which I cannot believe that any citizen would willingly accept. country are the veins and arteries through which its lifeblood flows. Neither can hope to function without the aid of the railroad. It is so important to the railroads that the farmer should prosper as it is to the farmer that the railroad should prosper. I am quite paid for the service that they render.

Promises New Tax Cut.
Believing that no people are truly free who are unjustly taxed, we promote the people of America to a revision of the income tax, but the reduction in the taxes that weigh them down and sap the vigor of their productive efforts. The income tax is a discriminatory and discriminatory provisions of the present tariff law must be wiped out. The income tax is a discriminatory tax with fairness to all and favors to none, a statute designed primarily to favor the world court in sincerity and honesty and to the people of the world as an avenue of escape from government and aimed at a truly competitive basis. We have no hostile design toward any legitimate industrial enterprise, but we are determined to tear down or destroy. But we are resolved that the laying and collecting of taxes shall be left to the discretion of a private business and that monopoly shall find no section of the law behind which it can hide. The income tax should be further lowered.

Unconscious reaction to this kind of attack is to feel that the man behind it is a little bit crazy. I am ready to agree that there is no right in government to try any man beyond its jurisdiction because he is a foreigner. But I am not sure that every dictate of reason and morality supports the rule that those who are not citizens of a country are outside of society's greater share of its concern than their fellow man's contribution to the welfare of the community. I am not sure that the right of every man to be treated as a citizen is a general principle that is as ready for any one case as it is ready for any other. I am not sure that the right of every man to be treated as a citizen is a general principle that is as ready for any one case as it is ready for any other.

We must have, in addition, an economy which consists not merely in securing the necessities of life for all, but in spending, but that far less popular form of economy which limits the production of goods which are not needed.

things one wishes cannot at the time afford. Economy, however, because of the necessity of it, is the only way to get the pay of government employees, who are justly entitled to pay equal to the pay of the private sector, and to give them the opportunity for similar work. Every business executive knows that underpaid service will produce a poor product.

Why this question is it not the law? I would hold in contempt any public official who took with unspiced hand an oath to support the constitution and the league and, indeed, any organic contract with other nations, because they wish the United States to live a purely opportunistic life. ## Text of Speech by Senator Thomas Walsh Notifying John W. Davis of His Nomination

Mr. Davis: My associates and I, members of a committee, in which are represented the forty-eight states of the union as well as the territories and possessions, have been delegated formally to announce to you your nomination by the unanimous voice of the national democratic convention lately assembled in the city of New York as the candidate of the party for which it was authorized to speak, for the office of president of the United States. On behalf of the committee I advise you of that action taken on the 9th day of July, 1924, the sixteenth after the session opened and after the convention had fruitfully labored 102 times.

The occasion was signaled not alone by its protracted character—no similar assembly having approached in that respect—but as well by the high purposes and deep convictions actuating the delegates and by the intensity of the passions aroused by the struggles featured, from which you happily were quite removed. The tumultuous applause which broke forth as the convention, with one common accord, acclaimed you its choice but reflected the conviction generally expressed by friends and foes alike that a leader had been found eminent by character, training and experience for the high office for which he was elected, worthy of the best traditions of the party of Jefferson, Madison, Jackson and Wilson, two of whom at least have never been equaled in our line of presidents in intellectual equipment nor surpassed in human sympathy.

Such misgivings as have been felt, such doubts as have been ventured touching your nomination, have no relation to anything done or to anything left undone in your active and highly serviceable political and official career, to any view you may have expressed or to any votes you may have cast. These appear to be unexceptionable. Tried by that touchstone, by the acid test, every fair-minded man must adjudge you a liberal, progressive, you were, as the world knows, an advocate of woman suffrage as a member of the legislature of your native state before you entered the arena of national politics.

Davis Fought Injunctions. In the 62d congress you were conspicuous in the advocacy of every measure that served to differentiate the reactionaries from the progressives. You assailed "government by injunction" set forth with a great wealth of illustrations the abuse of that process and of the power to punish for contempt, and supported with marked ability and eloquent tongue the effort, subsequently successful, to remove or minimize the opportunity of opposing labor through resort to that remedy. In that connection you defended both the wisdom and the constitutionality of the provision in the bill to which you addressed yourself, later incorporated in the law, providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt. In your stirring speech supporting the program of remedial legislation urged by organized labor, you said:

"I denounce as a libel upon American citizenship the assertion that the laboring men of this country are ever ready at the word to break into lawlessness or that they sympathize with those who do. And I pity the man who takes counsel of his fears as to be unwilling to recognize and accord to them by statute and in practice the full use of every legitimate weapon of offense or defense in all trade wars and the unhampered exercise of every constitutional right."

The principles of the bill giving occasion to the remarks quoted have since, as stated, been incorporated in the law and are now accepted. But they were then stoutly contested and were recognized only after a struggle of more than twenty years. Like other advances in the road toward freedom, they seem to us as though their attainment must have been simple because they appear so reasonable. In the same congress you supported with zeal and learning the Webb-Kenyon bill, the farthest advance then considered toward suppressing through federal action the unspeakable evils of the liquor traffic.

The entire program of remedial legislation entered upon when the Wilson administration assumed control of our national affairs had your cordial approval and support. As a member of the house committee on the judiciary you were intimately identified with the anti-trust legislation known as the Clayton act, sometimes referred to as labor's Magna Charta, the principles of which you had so eloquently supported in the preceding congress, and with its counterpart, the federal trade commission act, the most potent agency of government for repressing practices leading to monopoly and for enforcing decency in business methods.

A feature of your congressional career, marked by conspicuous public service, has a peculiar significance at this time when honesty in government assumes a place of first importance in the campaign now opening.

Exposed Infamy of Archbold. I remind those interested that under your direction the house of representatives exposed the infamy of Archbold as judge of the court of commerce and that as one of the managers on the part of the house on the trial before the senate your conduct of it was marked by such distinguished ability that when subsequently your nomination as solicitor general came before that body it was approved by unanimous consent and without reference to any committee. In your time the task devolved upon you of driving the money changers from the temple, just as in succeeding and present republican administrations it fell to some of us.

The head and front of your offending bath this extent, no more, that because the president signed it only under protest, regretting that the Mellon plan was rejected in its enactment, signifying that in case he is elected with an acquiescent congress revision will be attempted in accordance with the views to which he is wedded; and second, because further reduction in taxation in a consummation most devoutly to be wished and reasonably to be anticipated. In all reasonable probability there will be a revision of the present income tax laws within the next four years. What shall the mandate of the people be? Will they direct the congress and the president to revise along the lines advocated by the president and Mr. Mellon or along the lines laid down by the democrats and insurgent republicans in both houses and followed in the law of the late session? Will they approve of the Mellon plan of making the greatest cut in the case of taxpayers with swollen incomes and the least in the case of the rate of decrease, or will they endorse the Simmons plan of according the highest percentage of relief to those of low income? Or will they gradually diminish the percentage of decrease as the incomes increase in volume? I congratulate the country on the high caliber of the men who clearly defined issues for solution. There is no room for the informed to avow that there is no difference between the two plans. The difference is in the degree of the cut. The Simmons plan, Mr. Davis, is a well that you exemplify so admirably the attitude of your party on these great issues. And now into your hands we confide the task of leading in the fight to vindicate before the people of America that attitude, confident that we offer to them a candidate who is a real leader in the United States in whom, if elected, there will be a general pride.

Let the campaign be waged accordingly upon the political issues which the major parties have I conceive to be, in the main, four: Honesty in government; revision of the tariff; the maintenance in principle of the present income tax law, and frank cooperation with the nations of Europe for the restoration of peace and the revival of industry to ensure an increased demand for our surplus, mainly of agricultural products. Economy in public expenditure that labor may be lightly burdened is a cardinal doctrine of the democratic party. Reduction in taxation is a policy consistently to be adhered to. Any party entrusted with power will be impelled by every consideration of its own future to practice economy and to reduce the burden of taxation as the war-time period recedes. It is idle to attempt to assign a superior virtue to either or any political party with respect to such policies.

surplus, mainly of agricultural products, is a policy consistently to be adhered to. Any party entrusted with power will be impelled by every consideration of its own future to practice economy and to reduce the burden of taxation as the war-time period recedes. It is idle to attempt to assign a superior virtue to either or any political party with respect to such policies.

It is a startling coincidence that in two successive republican administrations the country should have been rocked by scandals having their origin in the disposition of the public domain. Will any one undertake to guarantee freedom from such, should that party for the third time be entrusted with what is left of it? Consider how the crimes that have disgraced the party in power and shamed the nation have been regarded by republican leaders. Has any one of them raised his voice in denunciation either of the offenses or the great industrial or transportation corporations, or at least the measures to guarantee freedom from such, should that party for the third time be entrusted with what is left of it? Consider how the crimes that have disgraced the party in power and shamed the nation have been regarded by republican leaders.

Coincidence Startling.

Vision Not Hampered.

Speaking of the legal career of Davis, which has been under fire, Walsh declared that the nominee's vision has not been "hampered or limited" as has that of some lawyers who have engaged in practice only for great corporations.

"Your practice has been general," he said to Davis, "and you have been for some great and possible ruthless corporation, the next for an impoverished contender against the massed wealth of such as the victor in ruthlessness; today appearing for interests demanding the process of the law in some industrial war, tomorrow organized labor striking for living wages or individual charged with illegal acts in aid of a strike."

"Your powerful clients never discovered you until your name as a lawyer was firmly established and your preeminence at the bar was nationally and internationally recognized. I am sure your gratitude is reserved for the effort to shift the whole responsibility to the genial soul now translated, while the subordinate participants in the nasty mess are still retaining simply because an aroused public opinion has not forced action in their case as it did in the case of the principals, Denby and Daugherty. Robison, who furnished the brains for the system in the transaction, is still the head of the bureau of engineering to which the care of the reserves is entrusted; Robison, tutored for the place by Dolan; Robison, who boasts of having originated the idea of taking the oil out of the ground and storing it in tanks to be paid for with two-thirds the contents of the reserves. Bain, right-hand man to Fall in connection with the leases, equally wedded to the policy of leasing the reserves, is still director of the bureau of mines. Bain, who realized with Fall that there were objections to asking from the attorney general an opinion on the legality of the leases in the execution of which he had a conspicuous part. Both of these officials knew the negotiations were being carried on in secret, both knew they were made in contravention of common business prudence, if not the law, without competitive bidding. In fact, they were conversant with all the facts that made the leases objects of suspicion as soon as their execution became public and that led to the investigation which disclosed the infamy that characterizes them. To these officials the custody of the reserves, valued at hundreds of millions, will, in due course, be reconfirmed if, after all the effort made in that behalf, they are regained.

Fought Many Trusts.

"The anthracite trust, the lumber trust, the shoe machinery trust, the steel trust found you an antagonist worthy of the highest talent they could command. You fought a good, though a losing fight to uphold the first old labor law and a winning one to maintain the Adamson law."

Speaking of Davis' congressional career, Walsh cited his support of the Webb-Kenyon bill, his connection with anti-trust legislation, and his work as one of the managers of the Archbold case, when it was carried by the house to the senate for trial.

"If your time, the task devolved upon you of driving the money changers from the temple, just as in the succeeding and in the present republican administrations it fell to some of us," Walsh declared.

proceed in a definite way with the program for instituting the Dawes plan. Reports from all three committees of the senate have been agreed to in principle, but the juries are busy studying and editing the protocols, which are not yet in final form. The opinion now seems general in conference circles that the outcome will be definitely settled by Thursday or Friday, and the majority opinion is decidedly optimistic respecting the results.

The "Big Fourteen" met today to receive the report of the third committee, which outlined how Germany will make payments in kind.

There was much argument in this committee about the quantity of coal and coke Germany shall deliver, but agreement was finally reached with the understanding that the matter shall be subject to arbitration.

The "Big Fourteen" will meet again tomorrow morning and there is a chance that the private interviews may have effected a settlement of the Ruhr evacuation problem by that time in such a manner that the conference can act on the technical problems without standing under the shadow of a political controversy between the French and German over the district where the Krupp and other manufacturers of war supplies have their headquarters.

THOUSANDS HEAR DAVIS IN DOWNPOUR

dampened not a whit by the torrential downpour which soaked clothes and dripped uncomfortably down necks. In the midst of the torrent Davis' speech was interrupted for a moment when a big mountaineer a loud but untimely voice began to chant the popular song:

"It Ain't Going to Rain No Mo'."

The crowd took up the tune, but quickly stopped when the rain started in with added force.

It never ceased to applaud despite the downpour. Time after time applause swept through the crowd as Davis attacked the republican administration.

The name of Woodrow Wilson brought a great cheer. The rain poured harder, but the crowd stayed, laughing and joking about the rain.

It was a storm of the hills and no one would remain in for a minute under ordinary conditions.

As the rain spouted stronger, soaking the already drenched audience,

Davis stopped and turned to Shaver, who sat behind him, to ask if he should continue speaking. His answer came from the crowd: "Go on, John, go on, come from all portions of the throng."

"We're with you till hell freezes over," shouted an old fellow standing just below the speaker's box, pulling his coat collar about his neck.

Davis raised his hand and the crowd subsided.

Raise Umbrella Over Davis.

A man came out and put an umbrella over Davis, not so much to protect the candidate dry as to protect his manuscript. The nominee turned up his coat collar.

A loud roar came from a group of miners who had come down from the hills to hear the speech when Davis reached the portion of his address assailing the injunctions in labor disputes.

COOLIDGE HEARS LABOR IS FLOCKING TO HIM

The rain slackened and became a fine sheet of mist, and a cold breeze came down from the hills as Davis approached the end of his speech. The rain-soaked crowd shivered, but refused to leave. When he reached the portion of his address upholding enforcement of the prohibition law, a great cheer arose from the crowd, rising in volume a moment later when he declared the law must be enforced against such as well as poor.

Rain Starts Again.

The rain started in again after a brief slackening up, harder than ever. At this point Davis gave his views on the league of nations, and the rain could not stop a heavy round of applause.

Davis was to be supplied with a dry handkerchief. He accepted it, unfurled by the difficulties under which he labored.

The crowd gave a sympathetic shout as it took that it still with the rain.

The league and the veiled reference to the Klan brought bursts of applause which echoed through the rain. Just at this point a young soldier wearing an overseas cap wrapped a white tarpaulin about Davis and the man who held the umbrella over him, to afford him better protection.

Can't Put Hood on Him.

Somebody in the crowd remarked: "John can wear his sheet if he wants but you can never put a hood on him."

"If I become president of the United States," Davis began as he swung into his peroration.

Davis had the appearance of the captain of a ship on the bridge during a storm as he drew toward the end of his speech, his coat collar curled close around his neck. A tremendous shout rolled over the field from the drenched thousands as he finished.

Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown, defeated candidate for senator in democratic primaries, rushed to the speaker's booth and seized the rain-soaked original manuscript of Davis' acceptance speech.

The crowd made a rush for the stand and thousands, literally, fought to climb the rail and shake hands with Davis.

Valdosta, Ga., August 11.—Patrolman D. Mullis of the Valdosta police force, died late this afternoon the result of a pistol wound inflicted by Yancey Wheeler, negro, here early this morning. Late Sunday night, police headquarters was notified that Wheeler was creating a disturbance in a negro section in the southern part of the city.

Officers Mullis and Rogers answered the call, and as Officer Rogers entered the house, where the negro was, several shots were fired at him. None took effect.

The officer returned the fire, one shot lodging in the negro's arm, inflicting a slight wound. As the negro fled he fell over a wire fence. As Officer Mullis came up the negro shot him in the chest.

The negro continued his flight, but was later captured about five miles north of the city.

When it was learned that Officer Mullis was in critical condition the negro was removed to another jail for safety.

TWO ARE SLAIN AT SAVANNAH.

Savannah, Ga., August 11.—W. F. Hodges, city policeman, and a negro named Russell, who had been in the prison for a shooting that took place at the farmwell police phone booth early this morning at Cohen and West Boundary streets. Another negro, Peter Harris, who was also a prisoner in charge of Hodges, is in a hospital critically wounded.

Patrolman Hodges had arrested the two negroes and had taken them to the box to call for the wagon. He told headquarters that he had two men and wanted the wagon sent to carry the prisoners in. As the wagon drove up the officers were horrified to see their fellow officer dead at the foot of the post on which the box rests and a few feet away the negro, as yet unidentified, lying close beside him. The police believe that the two prisoners made an attempt to escape and that Hodges pulled his gun. Whether he killed the negro who is dead and the one captured and now at the hospital killed Hodges is not yet ascertainable.

The negroes were arrested for loitering. Harris said that when the box was pulled, Russell pulled a gun and shot at Hodges, hitting him several times. Hodges was weakened by the shots but managed to pull his gun and kill Russell. After Russell was dead Harris grabbed Hodges and tussled with him. The policeman fell and was unable to fight, and it is thought that Harris then shot him to death.

FRIERS' BASE SHIP IS FREE OF ICE

Reykjavik, Iceland, August 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The supply ship Gertrud Rask, whose imprisonment in an ice pack off Angmagssalik on the east coast of Greenland, has been an important factor in delaying continuation of the round-the-world flight of the American army officers, broke free from the ice at 4 o'clock this morning, Major Clarence E. Crumrine reported today to the aviators.

The Gertrud Rask was able to resume its attempt to reach Angmagssalik to prepare at that place for the next leg of the round-the-world flight. The United States cruiser Raleigh, exploring the east coast of Greenland in search of a landing place for the American army round the world fliers, today reported to Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder that she was in a dense fog 90 miles east-southeast of Angmagssalik and that she had encountered many floating ice hummocks.

While the vessel was attempting to gain the clear sea of ice, a hummock touched it, slightly damaging the starboard forward propeller, according to the report to the admiral.

In a statement this morning Admiral Magruder said it was doubtful if Angmagssalik could be used as a base by the scout planes which are being carried by the cruisers Raleigh and Richmond to explore the coast. A plea had been considered whereby these planes would carry fuel for the round-the-world planes over the Angmagssalik ice fields.

Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant H. Nelson believe that the vessel of providing a base at Angmagssalik at some point further south on the east coast of Greenland now depends on the Gertrud Rask.

BOSTON TO RESUME FLIGHT TODAY.

"DOWN WITH MUSSOLINI" IS CRY OF COMMUNISTS

Rome, August 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—During anti-government demonstrations were held here Saturday night and again last night by communists, while carabinieri, it is asserted, looked on and made no efforts to interfere.

The demonstrations Saturday were comparatively mild, but last night there was an increase in the number of participants and in the fervor of the demonstrators, although there were no serious clashes between them and officers or government supporters.

Considerable importance is attached to the events by the newspapers. The Saturday demonstration centered around the piazza Colonna in front of the Chigi palace, where the communists shouted again and again, "Down with Mussolini," "Down with Fascism."

Last night the communists attached red flags to telephone poles. The newspapers assert that the most surprising aspect of the demonstrations on both days was the noticeable indifference on the part of the carabinieri.

Fries Inspects Griffin as Site For Weevil War

Griffin, Ga., August 11.—(Special.)—In all probability, the Georgia experiment station here will be the center of the United States army chemical experiments on boll weevil control by use of poisonous gases and chemicals.

"A majority of the work in this section of the cotton belt will undoubtedly be located here," said Brigadier General Amos E. Fries, of the U. S. army, chief of the chemical warfare service, following a tour of inspection through the laboratories at the station here this morning.

"You have the cotton, weevil and facilities for experiments, which render chances favorable for the government to locate a staff here to do the work."

Seek Powerful Killer.

General Fries was accompanied by H. W. Walker, chemist from Edgewood Arsenal, where the headquarters for the experiments will be located. H. P. Stuckey, head of the experiment station, J. J. Plynt and the staff of the experiment station.

The first steps to be taken, the general explained, will be aimed directly at the weevil, regardless of the manner in which the chemical warfare, which renders chances favorable for the government to locate a staff here to do the work."

Gases will not be used, necessarily, said General Fries, but the liquid chemical will be experimented within an effort to find something many times as poisonous and destructive as calcium cyanide, and at the same time unharmed to the cotton plant.

Different stages of weevil development were examined by the committee from the earlier stages on to the mature weevil.

Those on the tour discussed numerous commercial boll weevil poisons, many of which are deadly. When the weevil first invaded this section, anything placed on the market was tried out and sold in large quantities in an effort to halt the march.

General Fries and his staff constitute the most highly trained chemists in the country. Their time and attention during the war was devoted to producing destructive chemicals to aid in the struggle. Since that time they have been engaged in public welfare and health work, and are now directing their energies on the boll weevil.

According to the general, the $25,000 appropriation is a part of the chemical warfare fund, and the funds that they are authorized to spend in the interest of experiments on boll weevil control.

General Fries probably will be in the city all day tomorrow.

He has been invited to be guest of honor at the Exchange club at the weekly luncheon at noon tomorrow.

MISS WILLIS WINSHER MATCH

Forest Hills, L. I., August 11.—Playing a most sparkling game of tennis, Miss Helen Willis, the beautiful young Canadian who holds the national and Olympic women's titles ran away from Mrs. L. C. Beaupre, the Canadian star, in the opening round of the 1924 women's national championship. Miss Willis defeated the former champion of Quebec, 6-0, 6-0. Mrs. Beaupre carried two games to defeat but that was the best she could do.

Miss Mary K. Browne, of California, a champion 12 years ago, who is returning from retirement, won from Mrs. S. H. Waring, of New York, 6-1, 6-2. Mrs. Mallory had an easy time disposing of Miss Caroma Wynn, of New York, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, was not exerted to win from Miss Masquerita Ginn, of Boston, 6-1, 6-2, and Mrs. Marion Z. Jost, of Wilmington, Del., a member of the American Olympic team, won from Mrs. Bronson Batchelor, of New York, 6-0, 6-4.

Matches Lifeless.

Except for the Willis-Beaupre match the sport was lifeless and intensely uninteresting. There were only a few spectators and the matches were played in the huge concrete stadium. Miss Willis was the only one of the stars who was called on to meet an opponent of high class, but she was in absolute command from the start.

The side-line jury agreed that if Miss Willis maintains the strokes, pace, control and cadence that she displayed Monday, she is certain to win the title again.

Benny Leonard Easily Wins Fight With Pal Moran

Injury Is Serious; Bout Postponed.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 12.—The Micky Walker-Benny Leonard bout, scheduled for New York August 20, will have to be postponed for at least a month. Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager, announced early today after physicians examined Leonard's thumb, injured in his bout with Pal Moran. The examination revealed torn ligaments and a possible fracture.

Olympic Arena, Cleveland, August 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, defending his title for the first time in eleven months, easily defeated Pal Moran, New Orleans challenger, in a 10-round no-decision contest here tonight. A tabulation by the ring-side experts gave Leonard nine of the 10 rounds with the sixth went to Moran.

The champion, boxing with his old-time skill and dash, so far outclassed Moran that the result never was in doubt. Leonard blocked perfectly and danced away from Moran's wild punches whenever the challenger dared to carry the fight.

The victory, however, may prove costly to Leonard. He received a blow to the right hand in the fourth round. This injury may force him to suspend training in preparation for his match with Micky Walker, world's welterweight champion, scheduled for ten days later. The damaged thumb was encased in splints as Leonard sat in his corner after the fight.

Billy Gibson, the champion's manager, said tonight he could not determine what effect Leonard's injury would have on his training for Walker until an examination can be made tomorrow.

Leonard convinced his admirers that he had lost none of his speed as a result of his injury of nearly a year. His judgment of distance was marvelously accurate and he whipped over his punches in championship form.

Had Moran on Run.

The champion continually had Moran on retreat, except for the sixth round, to escape a possible knockout. In the eighth he drove Moran to the ropes under a smashing attack, causing the New Orleans lightweight to sag as a result of solid punches to the head.

Moran boxed timidly and was wild with his right-hand swings. Whenever he pulled a left into Benny's face it was feeble and lacked steam. Moran slipped and was wrestled to the floor a half dozen times in the earlier rounds.

Tonight's fight, staged in an open arena just outside the city limits, attracted a capacity crowd of 20,000 spectators with receipts probably reaching $50,000. The match was refereed by Tommy McIntire, who, with Matt Hinkle, promoted the show. The men fought at catch weights. Moran weighed 133 1/2 lb., but Leonard's weight was not announced. It was said he scaled 140 pounds.

He chased Moran into a corner but no damage was done. They were sparring furiously in the center of the ring at the bell.

ROUND FIVE. Leonard drove two lefts to face without a return and repeated with two more lefts to the same spot. Moran was retreating to escape from Leonard's attack. Leonard crossed a right to chin and got a right to the head in return. Benny drove a right and left to the head and Moran missed a wild right to head. ## REPORT BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Renault Decisively Beats Madden; Fails To Get Kayo

Ringside, Queensboro Stadium, New York, August 11.—Jack Renault, the French-Canadian, who used to hammer gravel as a patrolman on the Montreal police force, tried to subdue tough Irish fellow named Harry Madden in this ring Monday night but found the job too big for him and eventually had to leave him to be taken by some more determined official. Though he was the judges' decision after the full 15 rounds.

Unable to lay Madden cold with solid clouts of the same fists that snapped the wholehog legs of Floyd Johnson and sent that sturdy brawler crashing to the carpet, Renault tried to bleed his man to death. He almost succeeded, for Madden squirmed red ink stars of the south, are taking part in the nineteenth annual southern net championship tournament at Asheville, N. C., August 11.—With the largest field in the Southern Lawn Tennis association's history taking part, the nineteenth annual southern net championship tournament is under way this morning on the Biltmore Forest and Asheville Country Club courts.

On account of the large entry list, it was necessary to play about half of the preliminary matches at Asheville Country Club. More than 100 racquetmen, including the leading stars of the south, are taking part. Jack Caldwell, Atlanta star and former Carolina open champion, had little trouble in winning his first match this morning. He defeated John Hunter, of Atlanta, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2. The Georgia star never was forced to exert himself. He was an easy victim before the steady playing of A. Waters. The score was 6-2, 6-0.

J. Mills Newton, New Orleans, won his match on default, John Heitner, failing to make his appearance.

Owens Draws Bye.
The following drew byes in the opening round of the second section: "Hop" Owens, Atlanta; H. Shapinsky, Louisville; Tom Carothers, Chattanooga; H. B. Reilly, W. H.

A GOOD LITTLE SHOW.
Columbus, Ga., with its enormous seating capacity for fights, stands a better chance for these big battles than Atlanta, because a suitable place for a scrap of the size of the Stribling-Greb match is one thing in which Atlanta is sadly lacking right now. However, if Atlanta can't support a big fight, it can get a couple of dollars' worth of entertainment out of a three-ring card and provide a little cigarette money for a promoter who gets such a crowd in the ring.

The few good boys left in Atlanta are getting all their work out of town. Tim O'Dowd is blighting the city.

TRUE TO FORM.
Two battlers ran exactly true to form last night. No one expected Benny Leonard to do anything but get a decision over Pal Moran in Cleveland. A few thought Jack Renault, Canada's big jockey, would put the skids under Bartley Madden, but time is telling that he is not. That Silver has lost none of his punching power during his forced lay-off was proven in his two fights last night when he staved off his opponents away in short order by the knockout route. On July 4 Silver gained a three-round victory over Eddie Britt, while on July 29 he knocked out Dick Leonard, Savannah lightweight, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Jacksonville. In his fight with Leonard he proved that he is one of the most dangerous punchers in the roped arena.

Silver was suffering from internal injuries due to some hard body punching that Silver laid out to the Savannah boy. According to Max Abelson, Silver will be completely fit in one thing or a while. He intends to have his battler in line to meet the best in his class when he again starts fighting. In the meantime Silver is attending the Atlanta Southern Dental college. Lew is now a Junior.

E. CUMMINGS WESTERN CHAMP
Chicago, August 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Finishing a week of fine golf with still better golf than she had yet displayed, Edith Cummings, of Chicago, added the western title to her golf championship by her national title by finding Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, the best player in the country by the wide margin of 12 and 10 at Onwentsia.

The fact that Miss Burns, last year's title holder, had been ill all night of pneumonia and was in doubt whether any woman golfer could have defeated her today. The champion not only won the title, but she got the gold medal for low qualifying score of 81 and conceding her two putts that were not holed, she would have low score for the meet, as she had a total of 81 in the morning round.

Miss Burns Set Record.
Owing to the conceded putts, this honor goes to Miss Burns, who scored 82 Saturday in the semi-finals and holed all putts. Miss Burns also a record of 57 for the first nine, one stroke better than Miss Cummings' score on that half today. The downfall of the champion made no excuses for her poor showing in the match and in fact it would not have been very poor except by comparison for, aside from putting and one missed drive, she was up to the green on equal terms with her opponent most of the time.

The morning round was played in rain, but a bright sun shone on the final holes to cheer a gallery of large size, but the afternoon round reached to the eighth hole, as Miss Burns was even less effective after luncheon and managed to have only fifteen of the eighteen holes played. The fact that Miss Burns, last year's title holder, had been ill all night of pneumonia and was in doubt whether any woman golfer could have defeated her today. The champion not only won the title, but she got the gold medal for low qualifying score of 81 and conceding her two putts that were not holed, she would have low score for the meet, as she had a total of 81 in the morning round.

Sandy Wiener Is Eliminated
Chicago, August 11.—Elimination of A. L. (Sandy) Wiener, of Philadelphia, protégé of William T. Tilden, national men's champion, and Jack Sagalowsky, of Indianapolis, were the outstanding results in the national junior and boys' tennis championships played at the South Side Tennis club today.

In the boys' division, Wiener lost to Lewis Watson, of Brooklyn, 8-4, 8-6. In the junior play, Sagalowsky was trimmed by Neal Sullivan, Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-4.

George Lott, of Chicago, defending champion, stepped on the grass courts after a week on clay and had some trouble in taking his open match from Henry L. Johnson, of Boston, 7-5, 6-4.

In the hardest fought match of the day Emmett Pare, of Chicago, just named John O'Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, in the junior singles. The score was 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Pare then advanced to the third round at the expense of Markey, of Indianapolis, 6-1, 6-2.

Shoots 11 Birds.
Miss Cummings had 11 birds and was over par on only one hole, which was one of two on which she took more than two putts. And she was four under par for the eight holes

Crackers Easily Holds Locals To Short End of 6-2 Score In Listless Opener Here

BY HENRY ALLEN.
The Crackers lost a game to Mobile yesterday at Spiller's Field, an exhibition typical of Monday contests late in the season. The final count was 6 to 2. As a result, the Crackers are forced to share second place honors with the New Orleans Pelicans this morning. The two clubs are tied.

The contest was a listless affair, minus the enthusiasm and pep so noticeable only a week ago. The Bears didn't have much trouble with the offerings of Ray Francis, and smacked them to all parts of the lot.

Pete Peterson, who followed Francis yesterday, was finding the Crackers and Peterson easy. The Bears were having their troubles with Dan Boone. A total of five hits during the afternoon was the best they could get and a single hit secured until the fourth frame. Boone was never in danger and the batting strength of the locals was easily missing.

Listless fielding on the part of both sides helped in the scoring. A total of three errors was chalked up against the Crackers.

The contest was minus any scientific playing, although both sides did manage to pull off a couple of double plays. Dan Boone, who hit the first three singles out of three times at the plate. Huhm managed to get a couple out of three tries. Marriott struck out three times, while the Crackers tied the score in the third inning without securing a hit. Hillis walked and Paschal was hit by a pitched ball. Good was an easy out, but Hargrave booted a sure out, allowing Hillis to score.

The Bears went into the front in the fourth inning with two counters. Huhm and Marriott were third. Stokes beat out an infield hit, scoring Marriott.

The visitors' other counter came in the sixth. Huhm singled but was forced at second by Marriott, who later stole second. In an attempt to catch Marriott off the bag, Francis struck wild and the Crackers' base man reached third. As Good flunged the ball he came on home.

The eighth netted a counter for each side. H. Williams led off with a double and went to third on Huhm's sacrifice. Marriott struck out, but the ball hit the plate and bounced to the stands, allowing Williams to score. Huhm and Marriott reached first. The Crackers' final counter came when Paschal singled and Good tripled after two men were down.

The final count of the game came in Mobile's hand of the ninth. Two men were out when Kelley got his third hit. Mulvey followed with a double to left center.

Child Hit by Ball.
Miss Christine Bentley, 31 East Third street, was hit on the head by a foul tip from the bat of Denny Williams in the seventh inning but was not seriously hurt. She was sitting just to the left of the net screen in the grandstand.

She was given first aid by Dr. W. J. Auten, club physician, and home shortly.

ATLANTA NET TOURNAMENT

Crackers Easily Holds Locals To Short End of 6-2 Score In Listless Opener Here

BY HENRY ALLEN.
The Crackers lost a game to Mobile yesterday at Spiller's Field, an exhibition typical of Monday contests late in the season. The final count was 6 to 2. As a result, the Crackers are forced to share second place honors with the New Orleans Pelicans this morning. The two clubs are tied.

The contest was a listless affair, minus the enthusiasm and pep so noticeable only a week ago. The Bears didn't have much trouble with the offerings of Ray Francis, and smacked them to all parts of the lot.

Pete Peterson, who followed Francis yesterday, was finding the Crackers and Peterson easy. The Bears were having their troubles with Dan Boone. A total of five hits during the afternoon was the best they could get and a single hit secured until the fourth frame. Boone was never in danger and the batting strength of the locals was easily missing.

Listless fielding on the part of both sides helped in the scoring. A total of three errors was chalked up against the Crackers.

The contest was minus any scientific playing, although both sides did manage to pull off a couple of double plays. Dan Boone, who hit the first three singles out of three times at the plate. Huhm managed to get a couple out of three tries. Marriott struck out three times, while the Crackers tied the score in the third inning without securing a hit. Hillis walked and Paschal was hit by a pitched ball. Good was an easy out, but Hargrave booted a sure out, allowing Hillis to score.

The Bears went into the front in the fourth inning with two counters. Huhm and Marriott were third. Stokes beat out an infield hit, scoring Marriott.

The visitors' other counter came in the sixth. Huhm singled but was forced at second by Marriott, who later stole second. In an attempt to catch Marriott

MAXSON REEVE JUNE

Mrs. Noah. By Wallace M. Baylis. Oh, Mrs. Noah, let us think a while. If any woman ever had a trial in managing her husband, it was she. For on the land or on the rolling sea, Old Captain Noah was a peppy sail. Who wanted folks to halt when he said halt. But Mrs. Noah was no hand to cry. When hubby issued orders, "Aye, sir, was?"

When he brought home the blue prints of the ark. The war began; each day from dawn till dusk. And far into the night the battle raged. She didn't see the way the snakes were caged. Why couldn't he put up a stairway where He had planned to stow the polar bear?

Why park beside her bedroom Mr. Skunk? The whole arrangement of the ark was punk!

And as for bugs and creeping things, no, sir! She wouldn't have them on the ark with her.

But Noah went ahead with saw and bit. And fixed the boat as he wanted it. Then when he had his cargo bedded down. He told her she could come aboard—or drown.

How I Lost Gertrude, My Pet Giraffe. By Walter E. Trapecock. The newspaper notice that a baby giraffe was expected at the zoo of our neighboring city cannot fail to remind me of my Gertrude.

She was the loveliest creature I have ever seen. I brought her with me in 1902 from a South African trip made for the Museum. By kindness I had trained her so that she would allow me to shoop her neck when we were in the brush. From this elevation I could get a splendid view of the surrounding country.

It was after I had gotten her back to my private collection that my trouble began. Some of my neighbors complained that Gertrude used to look in their second-story windows. Therefore, I had to lock her in a compound which housed, along with a peacock named Gelett, two sprang up a bitter feud. Gelett doubtless resented the way Gertrude looked down on him.

One day Gelett took up a strategic position in a cherry-tree in which Gertrude was fond of browsing. I was just in time to see him drop down her neck as she reached her gaping mouth towards a branch. He instantly crawled past her larynx and wedged himself just south of the glottis. Gertrude's coughing spasms were tremendous, but try as she would, she could not dislodge Gelett. Once she had him almost up to the exit, but he suddenly shot his quills and dug in. Nothing could save Gertrude. She turned blue in the face and expired.

Gelett was executed the next day. I had to decapitate Gertrude to get him.

Mrs. Click: "Not quite. Only well enough to talk about."

Mrs. H. Fisher. Dry Rag Flutterings. A guest at the hotel approached the desk yesterday and asked of the day clerk: "What is the best time of day to go fishing?"

"Well, sir," the clerk replied, "if I were you I'd go down by the railroad bridge about the time when the evening train runs."

"Why then?" the guest asked.

"Because," was the clerk's reply, "the fish hear the train whistle and come up to get the scraps the chef dumps off the dining car."

—Jay B. Iden.

White Fang

BY JACK LONDON

Life, as he had known it, not only had no place in it for much that he now did; but all the currents had gone counter to those to which he now abandoned himself. In short, when all things were considered, he had to achieve an orientation far vaster than the one he had achieved at the time he came voluntarily in from the Wild and accepted Gray Beaver as his lord. At that time he was a mere puppy, soft from the making, without form, ready for the thumb of the Wild to begin its work upon him. But now it was different. The thumb of circumstance had done its work only too well. By it he had been formed and hardened into the Fighting Wolf, fierce and implacable, unloving and unlovable. To accomplish the change was like a reflux of being, and this when the plasticity of youth was no longer his; when the fibre of him had become tough and knotty; when the warp and woof of him had made of him an adamant texture, harsh and unyielding; when the face of his spirit had become iron and all his instincts and axioms had crystallized into set rules, cautions, dislikes, and desires.

Yet again, in this new orientation, it was the thumb of circumstance that pressed and prodded him, softening that which had become hard and remodeling it into false form. Weedon Scott was in truth this thumb. He had gone to the roots of White Fang's nature, and with kindness touched to life potencies that had languished and well-nigh perished. One such potency was love. It took the place of like, which latter had been the highest feeling that thrilled him in his intercourse with the gods.

But this love did not come in a day. It began with like and out of it slowly developed. White Fang did not run away, though he was allowed to remain loose, because he liked this new god. This was certainly better than the life he had lived in the cage of Beauty Smith, and it was necessary that he should have some god. The lordship of man was a need of his nature. The seal of his dependence on man had been set upon him in that early life when he turned his back on the Wild and crawled to Gray Beaver's feet to receive the expected beating. This seal had been stamped upon him again, and ineradicably, on his second return from the Wild, when the long famine was over and there was fish once more in the village of Gray Beaver.

And so, because he needed a god and because he preferred Weedon Scott to Beauty Smith, White Fang remained. In acknowledgment of reality, he proceeded to take upon himself the guardianship of his master's property. He prowled about the cabin while the sled-dogs slept, and the first night visitor to the cabin fought him off with a club until Weedon Scott came to the rescue. But White Fang soon learned to differentiate between thieves and honest men, to appraise the true value of step and carriage. The man who treated, loud-stepping, the direct line to the cabin door, he let alone—though he watched him vigilantly until the door opened and he received

"Better Business Women in a Better Business World" Is Motto of League

Miss Ada Booth and Miss Pauline Steinhauer, vice president and secretary of the Atlanta Business and Professional Women's club, who attended as delegates the national convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, held recently in West Baden Springs, Ind.

BY MRS. MCCORD ROBERTS.

Vocational luncheons and dinners were the unique features of the national convention of the Business and Professional Women's league, of which the motto is "Better Business Women in a Better Business World." This convention was held recently in West Baden Springs, Indiana, and was attended as delegates by Miss Ada Booth, and Miss Pauline Steinhauer, vice-president and secretary of the Atlanta Business and Professional Women's Club. Miss Elizabeth Eager accompanied Miss Booth and Miss Steinhauer to West Baden as alternate from the Atlanta club of which Mrs. Margaret Wimberly is president. Women of all walks in life are attending conventions as regularly as men these days and each year sees a national gathering of this and that and the other group, but though many hold great gatherings at which world problems are worked upon and frequently bettered, no one of them marks on the program anything as unusual as the vocational luncheons which are a fascinating feature of the Business and Professional Women's conventions.

At these luncheons at West Baden, women doctors gathered at a round table to discuss their peculiar problems, while in an adjoining room women lawyers cross-examined each other as to the bars they surmount in attaining recognition alongside their fellow men. Elsewhere at the same moment the press women anxiously exchanged ideas as to what is and is not news and made notions regarding what women wanted dish up to them.

The government service dinner was presided over by Mrs. Elizabeth Barnard, of Tampa, Fla., postmistress of the sixth largest post office in the United States.

Mrs. Katherine Gartside of Philadelphia, Pa., 76 years old, and owner of a soap manufacturing company, presided at the manufacturers' dinner.

There was a real estate dinner and a transportation dinner, and enough bankers and merchants to each have a special table. Of course social workers and nurses lunched together, while twenty-two states were represented at the secretarial luncheon. Advertisers, or rather publicity writers, held one luncheon and breakfast drew together 39 members of the Eastern Star with Mrs. Fay G. Crabtree, of Chattanooga, Tenn., as toastmistress. Mrs. Crabtree is grand conductress of the Eastern Star of Tennessee.

A teachers' luncheon was made gay by the singing of "The Old School Marm, She Ain't What She Used to Be."

Vocational lines were disregarded on one occasion—the bubbled-haired breakfast.

Among the interesting women whom Miss Booth and Miss Steinhauer met at this convention were Miss Lola B. Martin, of Albuquerque, secretary-treasurer for a railway organization whose territory embraces 13,000 miles and passes through thirteen states. She was formerly assistant foreman of one of the largest freight transfer platforms in the west and during that time supervised more than one hundred men and women.

Miss Ethel Roberts, of Oklahoma, an Indian maiden, member of the Shawnee Indian tribe, was another.

Mrs. Fay G. Crabtree, president of the Tennessee federation, secretary and treasurer of a transfer and storage company and large stockholder in the concern, whose motto is "keep moving," was a leader at the convention. Others were Mrs. Alma Lohmeyer, an undertaker from Springfield, Mo., and one of the two women in the United States who hold the position of president of a retail credit men's association; Miss Josephine M. Pearl, a maker of organs at Rock Island, Ill.; Miss Maude Emerick, land title expert from Michigan.

Miss Pearl Hadley Matlock, of Kansas City, Mo., who designed and installed the first card index system ever used by the British government, and Dr. Elinor Bahre, of Louisiana, who is an ichthyologist.

Mrs. Marion T. Brockway, president of the New York state league, whose mothers about 7,000 young men and women daily as house mother of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and Mrs. Brockway, who is a member of the first woman to graduate from Johns Hopkins.

Mrs. Emma Hill Perkins, a delegate to the convention, has been the monument business in St. Paul, Minn., for ten years, has a young daughter, keeps house and has a husband, and she is a member of the first woman to graduate from Johns Hopkins.

Mrs. Vivian Coyle, of Columbus, Ohio, is the chief tester for the Ohio Bell Telephone company's automatic, and is the only woman holding such a position. Miss Lila Ashby, of Little Rock, Ark., is credit manager of a wholesale drug company.

Mrs. Zella McBurny, of Warren, Ohio, was the only American woman invited as the guest of the English Women's Engineering society, which met at Manchester, England, during the spring. Mrs. McBurny is secretary of a large welding company, and is a member of the staff of the Indianapolis News, who was general chairman of the convention program. Miss Blanche Stranberry, is a fingerprint expert of the United States navy department.

The Atlanta delegates say that the six women who have attended every national convention of the organization are Miss Rich, of Jacksonville, Fla., Miss Georgia Emery, of Detroit; Miss Ruth Fall, of Cincinnati; Miss Lena Phillips, of New York City; Mrs. Kathryn Emmet, of Philadelphia, and Miss Marion Brogan, of Cincinnati.

They also learned that a peccan grove in Georgia is owned and operated by Dr. Effie L. Lobdell, of Chicago, and that it is her way of providing for her older days while she is yet having her days of prosperity. Dr. Lobdell, who is a physician and surgeon of Chicago, first bought the fancy paper shell pecan trees five years ago with a small saving account and has now developed the grove into a very worthwhile business. The entire crop each year is sold to Marshall Field & Co.

The unusual features of the convention are credited to Miss Ida M. Anderson, a member of the staff of The Indianapolis News, who was general chairman of the convention program. The next convention will be held in Portland, Maine, and will be in the summer of 1925.

Fair-Weather Wives

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

HER DUTY ENDED.

Marjorie was conscious that Dr. Maynard was speaking to her. But his voice seemed to come from a long way off and was very faint above a roaring, like distant waters, in her ears.

"Will you—I don't believe I understand—" she was faltering.

The doctor looked at her sharply. "I have just said, Mrs. Hollister, that the operation is over. Your husband survived it. If he lives until morning, as we have good reason to hope, he will be a well man."

The robbing in her ears reached crescendo. The world receded and went quite black.

She awoke in the sunlight of a new day after more than twelve hours of exhausted slumber, refreshed and vigorous, but dazed.

Slowly her sleep-drugged mind adjusted itself to the present. She half sprang from the bed before she remembered that her last conscious thought was that Hollister was as safe as could be expected under the circumstances.

What had happened after she had fainted for the first time in her healthy young life, how she had got to bed, were incidents shrouded in mystery.

She glanced at her bedside clock. The tiny hands pointed to 7. And Dr. Maynard had said that if Hollister lived until morning they had good reason to expect that he would recover.

She rang quickly for the little Indian girl who served her as maid so faithfully.

When the girl came, Dr. Maynard accompanied her.

"Good morning, Mrs. Hollister," he seated himself by the bed and laid his hand on her slim wrist professionally. "We have good news for you. Your nerves are pretty badly shot, my child. You've got to take better care of yourself."

"It's been rather a strain," she murmured, her eyes falling under his searching scrutiny.

"As good as ever," the doctor assured her. "But see here, I don't want another patient on my hands. Your nerves are pretty badly shot, my child. You've got to take better care of yourself."

"It's been rather a strain," she murmured, her eyes falling under his searching scrutiny.

She had plucked, he was thinking admiringly, this slim young thing, in time of misfortune came to a husband who had openly refused to live with her, whom gossip said she hated.

"Well, it's over now, I hope," he said quietly.

She looked up, startled. For the first time it came home to her that if Hollister lived, and was once more a well man, her duty was done. She hadn't really thought of it before, so unselfishly eager had she been for Hollister's recovery for his own sake.

Even Leila's brutally frank suggestions hadn't registered.

All that day, while she busied herself with the management of her household, she was realizing the advent of so many strangers, and entertained Leila and Ivan, the thought persisted with her, that she could go very long without seeing Hollister.

It followed her through the ensuing weeks while, little by little, Hollister's health improved, the pit to the roadway of health. She hadn't seen him since the operation. It was the great surgeon's orders that he be absolutely quiet; that no one but the two nurses and Dr. Maynard be admitted to the sick room.

Hollister himself sent Marjorie no message, did not even ask for her apparently.

She felt a little hurt by that. The wistful look deepened in her eyes and the red mouth drooped a bit. She was very lonely.

Leila and Ivan had been gone for a fortnight and Hollister had been pronounced quite out of danger, when Julie, radiant in Paris autumn finery, arrived one day without warning. She had stopped by in the course of returning from a motor tour of New England. Her most recent husband had been recalled to New York on business and had returned by train.

After a shrewd survey of Marjorie, now the shadowed, wistful eyes, the pathetic droop of the curved young in Georgia is owned and operated by Dr. Effie L. Lobdell, of Chicago, and that it is her way of providing for her older days while she is yet having her days of prosperity. Dr. Lobdell, who is a physician and surgeon of Chicago, first bought the fancy paper shell pecan trees five years ago with a small saving account and has now developed the grove into a very worthwhile business. The entire crop each year is sold to Marshall Field & Co.

The unusual features of the convention are credited to Miss Ida M. Anderson, a member of the staff of The Indianapolis News, who was general chairman of the convention program. The next convention will be held in Portland, Maine, and will be in the summer of 1925.

Touching upon local affairs briefly he called attention to the great expansion of Atlanta during the past two years and said, "Try as they will it is a great problem for the city officials to keep up with Atlanta's great growth in population."

Referring briefly to his tenure of office he said, "During the past year 30 miles of water mains were put in the ground; 20 miles of new paving was laid on 130 different streets, and large forces of men are busy at present in all parts of the city laying mains, putting in more sewers and laying new pavement."

A list of number of out-of-town traffic officials were present, including W. L. Nichols, general freight agent of the N. C. & St. L., of Nashville, Tenn.; N. B. Wright, freight traffic manager of the C. & G. of Savannah, Ga.; E. T. Wilcox, freight manager of the S. A. L., of Norfolk, Va.; R. G. Hodkin, assistant general freight agent of the A. C. ### NEW OAKLAND CLIMBS HILL IN HIGH GEAR

Oakland's sealed order week, planned as a novel means of acquainting the public with improvements and new features incorporated in the new Oakland models, got off to a good start Monday when a new machine, carrying three passengers, climbed Buena Vista avenue hill in high gear, from a rolling start.

Driving out Pryor street the turn was made into Buena Vista avenue. The car, which was stock in every respect, had not been sufficiently "limbered" for such performance, according to Oakland representatives, but it encountered no difficulty in topping the hill in high gear.

The new Oakland line is on exhibition in spacious showrooms on Spring street at Hunnicutt. The body lines remain practically unchanged, with exception of a new type which has been added. Changes and improvements for the most part have been of a mechanical nature, and a number of unusual demonstrations have been devised to bring out these improvements.

Branch officials each day receive demonstration "orders" from the factory. These orders, under seal, are opened each day by representatives of the Atlanta press.

Any visitor, or prospect, will be given opportunity of witnesses exhibition of any of these demonstrations, according to Branch Manager A. G. Millard. The public is invited to attend the opening of each day's orders and to witness all demonstrations.

TRAFFIC OFFICIALS HEAR ADDRESSES AT WEEKLY MEET

BY M. D. GLEASON.

A number of prominent railroad officials were guests of the Traffic club of Atlanta at its semi-monthly luncheon Monday at 12:20 o'clock at the Ansley hotel.

At the conclusion of the luncheon C. E. Wright, general manager of the Chattahoochee Valley railroad, of West Point, Ga., sang several baritone selections, accompanied by Senor Emilio Volpi.

President J. W. White then introduced Mayor Walter A. Sims, who received a rousing reception from the large crowd.

The mayor's address showed that he is a keen student of the American transportation situation and he stated in part that the solving of transportation problems must be done in a way that is fair to the public and yet provide a fair return to the transportation companies.

Referring briefly to his tenure of office he said, "During the past year 30 miles of water mains were put in the ground; 20 miles of new paving was laid on 130 different streets, and large forces of men are busy at present in all parts of the city laying mains, putting in more sewers and laying new pavement."

A list of number of out-of-town traffic officials were present, including W. L. Nichols, general freight agent of the N. C. & St. L., of Nashville, Tenn.; N. B. L. railroad, of Wilmington, N. C.; R. A. McCaffery, traffic manager of the United States East Iron Pipe company, of Birmingham, Ala.; A. J. New York, August 11.—An early advance in cotton today was followed by reactions of reports of better prospects for a break in the southwestern drought, but the losses were partially recovered and the market closed steady with prices net 14 points higher to 4 points lower, October sold off from 27.72 to 27.05 and closed at 27.40.

The opening was firm at an advance of 12 to 23 points in response to higher foreign exchange rates, steady Liverpool cables and the failure of early weather reports to show any rainfall of consequence in Texas. Active months, about 30 to 40 points net higher during the early trading with December advancing to 27.15 on covering and a little trading buying, but as soon as this early demand had been supplied, prices turned easier on reports of rains in Oklahoma with showers at a few points in Texas and moderate rain in the south, but rather weak and unsettled under liquidation of local and southern selling with December easing off to 26.52 or 30 points net lower. The detailed weather reports, however, showed less precipitation than expected in the southwest, and it was considered doubtful whether the showers predicted would prove adequate, and there were recoveries of some 25 to 40 points from the lowest in the later trading. The advance in foreign exchange was regarded as reflecting prospects for a settlement of reparations and this combined with the uncertainty of complete relief from southwestern drought seemed responsible for the advance.

Exports today were 6,991, making 39,792 so far this season. Port receipts 2,232. U. S. port stocks 215,446.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

TONE ERRATIC

AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, August 11.—The cotton market was nervous and erratic today with fairly wide fluctuations in prices but less active trading than has been the rule of late. At the start the market showed an advancing tendency mainly because of the fact that there had been no rain in Texas over Sunday and also because of the greater number of reports of deterioration in that state. October traded up to 26.87 and December to 27.05, or 31 to 32 points above the previous close. Later in the morning the market eased off on indications of rains in the west and an official forecast for showers in that section. October eased off to 26.23 and December 26.35, or 57 to 58 points down from the earlier highs. A later rally, however, was followed by reports of deterioration in Texas led to the recovery of most of the decline and the close showed net gains for the day and active trading months of 3 to 4 points.

One of the features of the day was the increase in the number of reports of actual deterioration in Texas. The official temperature reports for Sunday showed that 27 stations in Texas experienced maximum temperatures of 100 to 105 degrees and 17 stations in Oklahoma reported 100 to 106 degrees. The government pars for the report of August 10 call for an increase of 19.4 pounds per acre, hence it will take a material deterioration in condition to hold the crop indication down to the last figures of 12,551,000.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

POST &amp; FLAG.

New York, August 11.—Neither side seems at all confident or disposed to assume the aggressive but if there is to be any sustained important advance from this level it looks that there is a point where the trade would buy.

New Orleans, August 11.—The market shows strong indication of relief for the drought conditions and higher prices. We are not advising buying with this prospect hanging over the market.

C. P. ELLIS &amp; CO.

New Orleans, August 11.—A continuance of the prevailing and high temperatures in Texas is very apt to lead to increased reports of deterioration and a further recovery in price, temporarily at least.

HUBBARD BROS. &amp; CO.

New Orleans, August 11.—In receipt of several telegrams today from various points predicting rain, but apparently the market is rather slow to take in the fact that the rain does not really reach the drought section the market will undoubtedly have a good setback. However, if it rains, it will still say there is a good demand pending market recovery in price, temporarily at least.

LOUISIANA K. K. K. SHAKEUP RUMORED

New Orleans, August 11.—Rumors of a shake-up in Louisiana Ku Klux Klan, persistent since the recent visit to Shreveport of H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the organization, crystallized last night into definite report that the Atlanta potentate has named a new grand dragon and three new titans for Louisiana to succeed officers who held those positions through the recent legislative session which enacted the "secrecy and mask law," the New Orleans Times-Picayune says in an article published this morning.

Mr. Evans made no secret of his displeasure over the new Louisiana law, the newspaper says, which adds: "His visit and conferences at Shreveport, according to reports from usually well-informed sources, was followed by the retirement of the dragon and titans."

Changes Reported. "Reports from Shreveport last week," the article continued, "were to the effect that the state organization of the Klan would be removed to the Atlanta headquarters and placed under direct charge of the imperial wizard. Later and more definite reports are that a new grand dragon and titans have been appointed. Names of well-known klansmen are mentioned in current gossip in connection with current positions, but confirmation could not be secured from Klan officials."

A dispatch to the newspaper from Monroe quoted R. W. Germany, reputed great titan of the province, as announcing that he is "no longer great titan of the Louisiana Klan," he refused to discuss the situation further, the dispatch said.

"The current reports name Paul Perkins, of Lake Charles, great titan for the province of southwest Louisiana, and Thomas F. Depaul, of New Orleans, great titan for southeast Louisiana, among the officers retired," the newspaper said.

The article says that reports of friction and dissension in the Klan ranks persist in spite of vigorous denials.

SAYS LOUISIANA LAW WILL HELP KU-KLUX KLAN. Paul S. Etheridge, imperial klansman of the Ku-Klux Klan, stated Monday night that if the grand dragon of Louisiana had been displaced and a successor named, he knew nothing of it. The meeting held recently at Shreveport, Mr. Etheridge declared, was the regular annual state meeting, and the subject of ousting the grand dragon and three titans, referred to in press dispatches from New Orleans, were not discussed.

The recent legislative enactment of the "secrecy and mask law," Mr. Etheridge stated, in the opinion of Louisiana Klan members, would have no effect on the organization in that state, and if anything, would tend to quadruple its membership.

In reference to the appointment of a new grand dragon, Mr. Etheridge stated that the incumbent had expressed a desire to retire from duty on account of his being unable to devote sufficient time to the work.

The meeting at Shreveport had no bearing whatever on any resignations which might have occurred, Mr. Etheridge said, adding, that he was positive that no such action had been taken.

BERLIN MONEY EXPERT LAUDS DAWES REPORT

Williamstown, Mass., August 11.—The Dawes report was commended by Dr. Morris J. Bonn, Berlin financial expert, in an open conference on reparations at the Institute of Politics today, as being based on the sincere cooperation of all parties, as pre-supposing a return to normal conditions, such as the Ruhr evacuation, and as being sufficiently elastic to bring about automaticity in any changes found necessary in the future.

While criticizing the failure of the allies to fix Germany's total liabilities at the end of the year and stating that the total set by the London conference of 1921 was nothing short of ludicrous, Dr. Bonn declared that the Dawes report was right at this time in declining to do more than lay down variable annual payments for Germany.

More Evidence Found Of Common Ancestry Of Apes and Humans

Toronto, August 11.—Further evidence of the common ancestry of the anthropoid ape and man was afforded by the recent discovery in northern India of the teeth of three lower jaws of fossilized apes. Professor W. K. Gregory, of the Columbia university, today told the British Association for the Advancement of Science. The find was made by Barnum Brown, of the American Museum of Natural History.

"The distinctive markings of the lower molars have been traced in detail into the molar crown patterns of each of the existing anthropoids, and also into those of primitive human types," said Professor Gregory. "These facts strongly support Darwin's view that man is an offshoot from the anthropoid stem."

Negro Who Wrote Note to White Girl Is Being Hunted

Miami, Fla., August 11.—A mob of about 100 men spent the latter part of Sunday night and Monday searching for a negro named "Shorty" Williams, who is alleged to have written an insulting letter to a white girl of Larkins, a suburb of Miami. Deputy Sheriff E. J. Starling and Harry Morris were sent out from the sheriff's office to get the negro, and they are working in conjunction with the mob.

The woods in the vicinity of Larkins were searched, and the negro is being kept on all sections of Miami and vicinity where there are negro settlements.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE IN KILLING TWO MEN

Jacksonville, Fla., August 11.—Edward Rhoden, 24, Baker county farmer, was held in jail at McClelleny today, without bond, in connection with the shooting to death last night of James Foster, 40, his brother-in-law, and Clarence Foster, 22, both of Jacksonville.

Rhoden, according to Sheriff Jones, of Baker county, claims self-defense. He said, according to the sheriff, that the Fosters approached his home, where a family reunion was in progress and began to curse him. Rhoden saw that the men were armed, the sheriff added, and he was saying and ordered them to get out, and then he shot them both.

Sheriff Jones said he found a gun near Rhoden's body and a knife in the father's hand.

An inquest was begun today, but was postponed until tomorrow because several witnesses were not available.

The complaint alleges that the respondents manufacture cigars from tobacco grown elsewhere than on the island of Cuba under a brand name containing the word "Tampa." The complaint states the alleged acts of the respondents deceived the purchasing public into believing that the cigars so labeled were manufactured in Tampa, Fla., and from tobacco known as Havana tobacco.

The respondents have 30 days in which to answer the charges.
